RETAIL OR MULTIFAMILY DEVELOPMENT POTENTIAL

4010 Park St N, Saint Petersburg, FL 33709

Property Address: 4010 Park St N, Saint Petersburg, FL 33709

Property Type: Land

Lot Size: 1.07 AC

Zoning: CG (~0.6 ac) on the east side and RL (~0.46 ac) on the west side

Rail Access: N/A

Cross Streets: Park St N. & Alt. 19/Tyrone Blvd

DEVELOPMENT OVERVIEW

Residential Development Potential: The property is zoned partially Commercial General, CG (~0.6 acres on the east side) and partially Residential, R-1 (~0.46 acres on the west side).

The total max intensity for residential is currently 24 units per acre. Under the current zoning, the total residential potential would be 17 units. 14.4 units from the CG (0.6 x 24/acre) & 2.3 units from the R-1 (0.46 x 5/acres) for a total of 16.7 or 17 units. A transfer of the 2.3 units from the Residential Zoned portion into the Commercial General portion is possible so long as there is room for 17 total units within the CG portion. The remaining residential land may be used for stormwater / retention.

If rezoned to make the entire property CG/C-2, the max units would be  $1.06 \times 24 = 25$ . Under the current zoning, it is possible to develop a mixed use project with both residential and retail. To calculate the intensity for the retail development you would need to deduct the residential square footage. For example, the site could accommodate 15 townhomes and 10,421sf of additional retail space.

$CG = 24 \text{ units per acre. } 43,560/24 = 1,815 \text{ sf per unit. } 1,815 \times 15 \text{ units} = 27,225 \text{ sf or } 0.625 \text{ acre.}$  The remaining 0.435 acre ( $1.06 - 0.625$  devoted to density) could be used to calculate intensity for the retail.  $0.435(43,569) \times 0.55 \text{ FAR} = 18,948 \times 0.55 = 10,421 \text{ sf retail space.}$
