JACKSON COUNTY OVERVIEW

Although Jackson County is still largely rural, the eastern part of the county is considered to be the edge of Atlanta's sprawl. Jackson County's population currently stands just over 85,000 residents and neighboring Gwinnett County has a population of just over 1,000,000.

The entire Northeast Georgia Region has an incredible business climate that continues to attract several multi-million dollar projects. In late 2018, SK Innovation announced they had selected Jackson County as the base of operations for their SK Battery America division. The project was transformational for the county, alone creating 3,000 jobs.
