

WELCOME TO WESTERVILLE

The City of Westerville, Ohio, founded in 1858, is home to more than 37,000 residents, making it one of the largest suburban communities in the state. Located in the northeast corner of Ohio's fastest growing region (northeast Franklin County and southern Delaware County), Westerville is a leader in job creation and widely known for its nationally recognized parks system and award-winning city services. Situated just 10 miles from the airport and the state capital of Columbus, Westerville is also within 500 miles of more than half the United States and Canadian population. A rich heritage, Westerville was world headquarters to the Prohibition movement in the early 1900s. In 1916, Westerville became one of the first communities in Ohio to adopt the Council-Manager form of government.
